Management Process:

Identification:

In terms of Section 3A(2)(b)(i)(aa) of the General Code of Conduct, a conflict of interest management policy must be provide mechanisms for the identification of conflicts of interest.

Due to the intangible nature of an actual or potential conflict of interest, any such manifestation will only be identified once the subjective realisation of its presence has been acknowledged by an individual. The legal duty to avoid whenever possible an actual or potential conflict of interest is therefore, to a large extent, dependent on whether a particular individual believes or perceives a conflict of interest to begin with. It is for this reason that Key Individuals must apply honest and sage judgement whenever confronted with a situation that may give rise to an actual or potential conflict of interest.

Representatives:

Throughout the process of rendering a financial service to a client, a Representative must apply his or her mind to answering the following questions:

- “Is there any situation that exists that influences the objective performance of my obligations to my client”?
- “Is there any situation that exists that prevents me from rendering an unbiased and fair financial service to my client”?
- Is there any situation that exists that prevents me from acting in the interest of my client”?
  - If the answer to any one of these questions is “no”-No further action would be required
  - If the answer to any one of these questions is “yes”-The following two questions must also be answered:
- “Is the situation caused by an actual or potential relationship with a 3rd party”?
- “Is the situation caused by an actual or potential financial or ownership interest”?
  - If the answer to any one of these questions is “yes”-An actual or potential conflict of interest has been identified

(Note that a conflict of interest is not limited to a financial or ownership interest)

Key Individuals:

Throughout the process of rendering a financial service to a client, a Key Individual must apply his or her mind to answering the following questions:

- “Is there any situation that exists that influences the objective performance of the representative’s obligations to his or her client”?
- “Is there any situation that exists that prevents the representative from rendering an unbiased and fair financial service to his or her client”?
- “Is there any situation that exists that prevents my representative from acting in the interest of his or her client”?
  - If the answer to any one of these questions is “no”-No further action would be required
  - If the answer to any one of these questions is “yes”-The following two questions must also be answered:
- “Is the situation caused by an actual or potential relationship of the FSP with a third party”?
- “Is the situation caused by an actual or potential financial or ownership interest of the FSP”?
  - If the answer to any one of these questions is “yes”-An actual or potential conflict of interest has been identified

Guidance notes on “objective performance”, “unbiased and fair” and “financial interest”:

The contextual definition of the terms “influences the objective performance” and “unbiased and fair financial services” are not to be found within legislation and its interpretive meaning must therefore be sourced from elsewhere.

It is generally accepted that the word “objective” refers to a situation where an individual’s personal feelings or opinions are completely removed from the equation. The “objective performance” of an FSP’s obligations therefore implies a situation where financial services are rendered without the influence of unrelated feelings or opinions. In the same vein, “unrelated feelings and opinions” denote separate, external persuasions or motivations where no causal link or nexus can be found between the particular feeling or opinion and the financial service that is rendered within the best interests of the client. Put differently, if an unrelated feeling or opinion of an individual, influences the performance of such said individual’s obligations, it cannot be said to be an objective performance of that individual’s obligation.

The word “bias” indicates an inclination or prejudice in favour of a particular person or viewpoint. Similarly, the word “fair” indicates a situation of just circumstances or treating people equally.

Unbiased financial services therefore imply financial services that do not lend itself to a particular preference towards a person or viewpoint, if an accompanying, reasonable justification for such preference cannot be found. Consequently, all unbiased financial services must necessarily comprise services that are capable of being motivated by readily discernible, logical reasons and explanations.

“Fair” financial services on the other hand imply a situation where the same conclusion or outcome is consistently reached given the same exact set of circumstances. In other words, financial services cannot be said to be fair if a pattern of favouritism begin to present itself vis-à-vis a particular person or service. Any unexpected inconsistencies towards a group of clients and/or a particular client must therefore again, have to be motivated by logical reasons and explanations.

A provider or its representatives may only receive or offer the following financial interest from or to a 3rd party:

- Commissions as authorised under the Long-term Insurance Act, Short-term Insurance Act and the Medical Schemes Act
- Fees as authorised under the Long-term Insurance Act, Short-term Insurance Act and the Medical Schemes Act if those fees are reasonably commensurate to the service being rendered
- Fees for the rendering of financial services in respect of which the abovementioned commissions and fees are not paid, provided that the client agreed to such fees in writing and may be stopped at the discretion of the client
- Fees or remuneration for the rendering of a service to a third party, which fees or remuneration are reasonably commensurate to the service being rendered
- An immaterial financial interest (i.e. a financial interest with a determinable monetary value, the aggregate of which does not exceed R1000 in any calendar year from the same third party in that calendar year received by – a provider who is a sole proprietor, or a representative for that representative's direct benefit, or a provider who for its benefit or that of some or all of its representatives, aggregates the immaterial financial interest paid to its representatives)
- A financial interest not referred to in the above, for which a consideration, fair value or remuneration that is reasonably commensurate to the value of the financial interest, is paid by that provider or representative at the time of receipt thereof

A provider may not offer any financial interest to a representative of that provider for:

- Giving preference to the quantity of business secured for the provider to the exclusion of the quality of the service rendered to clients
- Giving preference to a specific product supplier, where a representative may recommend more than one product supplier to a client
- Giving preference to a specific product of a product supplier, where a representative may recommend more than one product of that product supplier to a client
